13	I care about southern Wyoming's desert landscape as do many people who are involved in natural gas development. This does not mean we should close the land off to all mineral resource extraction. In fact, I believe just the opposite. We can enjoy our beautiful natural landscape while producing natural gas to meet the nation's energy demand at the same time. While I still do have a few problems with the current draft of the Rawlins RMP – such as the definition of “disruptive activities” and the overprotection of sage grouse habitat – I am in strong support of the BLM's Preferred Alternative, which has received some fire from the environmentalists. Quite frankly, this plan will have minimal impact on the environment, so I am not sure why it is receiving any opposition at all. Thank you for your time, and good luck as you near completion of the RMP.
